HISTORY OF THE 757th DISTRICT ROTARY INTERNATIONAL

A HISTORY is a story. It should be a true story. With that thought in mind we have assembled the facts herein with as minute accuracy as could be obtained.

In the preface of many high school histories we find such introductory paragraphs as follows: "Nearly 2,000 years ago there was a brave captain whose name was Julius Caesar," or "We do not know when man first came into possession of the earth," or "Far back on the path of time History rises and comes to meet us," or "What memory is to man, history is to the human race," or "It is hard to believe other nations ever produced a line of men as noble, generous, and patriotic as that here catalogued," or "Two things help to determine our lives, one is our heritage from the past—the other is made up of the opportunities which come our way." But the one which intrigued me most prefaced an elementary history, the author saying, "I am going to tell you the history of the most wonderful people who ever lived."

"Once upon a time" fifty-five years ago the first Rotary Club in the world was organized. On February 23, 1905, at the invitation of Paul P. Harris, an attorney, four men met in an office of the Unity Building in Chicago, the other three being Sylvester Schiele, a coal dealer; Gustavus E. Loehr, a mining engineer, and Hiram Shorey, a merchant tailor. The following day Paul Harris asked Harry Ruggles, a printer, into the proposed club. He, in turn, interested Will Jenson, a real estate man. Schiele was the first president of the first Rotary Club. Paul Harris died January 27, 1947. All have now passed away, Harry Ruggles, the last, December 3, 1957. Max Goldenberg is the last surviving member of the Chicago club in the class of 1905. The further history of this pioneer club is enchanting but must be curtailed in this story of the 757th District. The Rotary Club of Chicago was the first club of the first international order of civic clubs in the world.

In 1913, the first Rotary Club in the Rotary district of which we were a part was organized at Richmond, Virginia, the 69th club in Rotary. As Washington is recognized as the father of our country, so the Rotary Club of Washington, D. C., may be considered the father of the 757th District, Rotary International, having sponsored Richmond. Roanoke, the oldest club in our present 757th District, was founded by Richmond one year later, in 1914, the 123rd club in Rotary. Moreover, Washington was the parent of both Richmond and Nashville, the two sons whose progeny consists of all the clubs now within the boundaries of the 757th District, except one club, as we shall see later.

Washington was the son of Minneapolis who had been parented by Chicago, so Roanoke is the great-great-grandson of Chicago.

In due time Richmond also begat Staunton and Covington-Hot Springs, while Nashville begat Johnson City. Johnson City is the next oldest club, after Roanoke, in our district, having been organized October, 1916. Lynchburg was next ushered in by Roanoke in February, 1917. Staunton has in due season assisted with the organization of Harrisonburg and Waynesboro; Johnson City has been responsible for the organization of Elizabethton, Greeneville, and Kingsport. Roanoke has the largest family in the 757th District, having sponsored in addition to Lynchburg, already mentioned, Bristol, Pulaski, Radford, Christiansburg-Blacksburg, Martinsville, Salem, Williamson Road, and Rocky Mount. Second honors for parenthood go to Harrisonburg, with four living children—Winchester, Woodstock, Luray and Bridgewater. Two clubs in our district were sponsored by clubs outside the confines of the 757th District, other than Roanoke and Johnson City. Amherst in 1939 was sponsored by Blackstone, Va., which in turn was descended from Richmond. Grundy was assisted in its organization by Welch, W. Va., which is the son of Bluefield, which is the son of Huntington, which is the son of Wheeling, which is the son of Pittsburgh, Pa. So Grundy is the only club in the present 757th District not descended from Richmond or Nashville. Danville, Lexington, and Bedford were sponsored by Lynchburg. Stuart, Bassett and Fieldale were organized by Martinsville. Otherwise, no other club in the district has sponsored more than two clubs. South Boston in the neighboring 760th District was organized by Danville.

Although Johnson City was organized before Lynchburg, the latter was chartered three months before Johnson City, as sometimes has happened, due to the rush of new clubs in the hands of the Secretariat. For example, between the organization of Danville in January, 1920, and Staunton in June, 1920, 184 charters were issued to other clubs throughout Rotary International. Johnson City waited almost eight months for its charter and Pulaski four. Likewise, there are other instances of discrepancies between organization date and charter date.

In the earlier days of Rotary, extension was a much simpler matter than today when many other orders of civic clubs have come into existence, and new locations offering opportunities for the establishment of Rotary are at a premium. Big years in extension in our district, although it has changed its bounds and name during the period, were in 1920 with five new clubs organized, five in 1938, and five in 1939. More clubs in this district have been organized in April than in any other month, ten. October comes next with seven, January six, March and November five, February, May and December three, June and July two each, August one, and September none. During the period between the organization of the first club in our district, namely Roanoke, and Williamson Road, it is remarkable to note that more than 7,200 clubs throughout the world were given charters. In more recent years the assigning of charter numbers has been abandoned completely by the board of directors of Rotary International, since so many clubs, particularly during the last world war, went out of existence, and in the reorganization of many the numbers became confused to such an extent that they possessed no significance. Today, as of June 30, 1960, there are 10,698 clubs in Rotary International, with a membership of 495,500. Our own district, as of the same date shows 47 clubs and 2,525 members.

The first ten clubs in the 757th District in order of their organization, but not in order of charters received, have been Roanoke, Johnson City, Lynchburg, Bristol, Danville, Pulaski, Staunton, Greeneville, Covington-Hot Springs and Harrisonburg. In this list, in addition to the case of Johnson City and Lynchburg, Covington-Hot Springs received its charter before Greeneville, and Staunton before Pulaski. Other instances follow, such as Galax and Bedford, the former having received its charter after the latter, but was organized before Bedford. Subsequently to these instances, in busy years of extension, all organization dates and admission dates have been consecutively parallel.

It is interesting though not particularly significant to note that no clubs were organized between 1917 and 1920, none from 1928 to 1933, nor from 1939 to 1941, though every other year except 1915, 1934, 1936, 1942 and 1943 saw at least one new club added to the district. Since then 1946, 1949 and 1951 have seen Fieldale, Salem, Williamson Road, and Rocky Mount come into the fellowship of our district, making the total of 47 clubs. None has been added since Rocky Mount in August, 1951.

Boundaries of the District—Governors

First records of geographical boundaries of our division of Rotary International show we were called the 4th District from 1915 to 1918, including the entire states of Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina. David P. Sites* of Roanoke, was governor at that time, the first governor of that territory now known as the 757th District. He as governor was succeeded by Thos. B. McAdams* of Richmond, Howard E. Rondthaler* of Winston-Salem, Rogers W. Davis* of Charlotte, and Lewis W. Perrin* of Spartanburg. Joseph A. Turner* of Hollins came next, during whose administration the district number was changed from 4th to 7th, but the boundary of the new 7th District remained intact.

In 1922-23 during the governorship of Roger Moore of Wilmington, N. C., who succeeded "Joe" Turner, the boundaries of the district were radically changed and the district became the 37th. South Carolina was taken out entirely and one county of West Virginia, namely Mercer, was brought within our bounds. In Virginia all counties east of the eastern boundaries of Tazewell, Smyth, and Washington were retained, and in North Carolina everything east of the eastern boundaries of Rockingham, Guilford, Randolph, Montgomery and Richmond Counties was left a part of the new 37th District.

The next year saw Mercer County of West Virginia removed but all else remained the same. At this time G. Franklin Lenz* of Newport News, was governor.

These years were gay periods in Rotary with large conferences and elaborate entertainment extending over several days. International conventions of Rotary drew special trainloads of Rotarians and their ladies from our district or possibly two districts combined. The "Dixie Special" traveling from Norfolk through to Los Angeles in 1922, under the leadership of Joe Turner, with coffee at Meridian, stop-offs at New Orleans, San Antonio, where hot baths were provided at the St. Anthony Hotel, El Paso, Albuquerque, where shower baths at the Y. M. C. A. were most acceptable, Grand Canyon, supper at Ashfork, and doughnuts at Barstow proved one of the memorable gay Rotary experiences of the day.

Frank Lenz was succeeded by M. Eugene Newsom* of Durham, who was followed by Charles J. Smith of Salem.

In 1926-27 another curtailment of the district was made, and its name changed to the 56th District. North Carolina was relinquished and Virginia slightly narrowed to that part of the state east of longitude 82 in Washington County. This new line left out a small part of Washington County. Frank W. Evens* of Norfolk became the first governor of the new 56th District, following Charlie Smith. Charles J. Smith and Joseph A. Turner were both members of the Roanoke Club. In 1926 a large and happy conference was held in Durham, "Gene" Newsom's home town. Many of the delegates brought home cherished souvenirs in the form of copper paper-knives, emblazoned with a blue enameled Rotary seal, which still occupy an uncontested place on our desks. Rotarians at the Petersburg conferences in 1923 came home with precious desert plates adorned with blue and gold bands, a Rotary seal in the center, long to be placed among the treasures of one's dining alcoves. These are among cherished memories of the sociable twenties in district Rotary.

The boundaries of the 56th District remained intact for ten years. Successive governors were William H. Surber of Charlottesville, John Weymouth* of Hampton, Julian A. Burruss* of Blacksburg, G. Jeter Jones of Richmond, Charles K. "Brownie" Brown* of Staunton, Ed. R. Johnson* of Roanoke, John E. Martin* of Suffolk, Paul D. Bowden of Warrenton, William McC. Paxton of Norfolk, and William A. "Bill" Luke, Jr.,* of Covington.

The following year on July 1, 1937, the district assumed its present general form and became known as the 186th, with Robert C. "Bob" Jennings of Waynesboro, now living in Charlottesville, as its first governor. The designated boundaries were that part of Virginia west of the western boundaries of the counties of Loudoun, Fauquier, Rappahannock, Madison, Greene, Albemarle, Buckingham, Charlotte, and Halifax; and that portion of Tennessee east of the western boundaries of the counties of Hancock, Hawkins, and Greene. Following Robert

C. Jennings, subsequent successive governors have been Irvin W. Cubine of Martinsville; Dave Shearer* of Johnson City; Dowell J. Howard* of Winchester; Dr. A. Merle Showalter of Christiansburg; Raymond C. Campbell of Elizabethton, now representative of District 757 on the Council on Legislation; Hensel Eckman of Pulaski, district treasurer; Rev. Lynn C. Dickerson of Harrisonburg, now living at Hollins, Virginia. In 1944-45 a slight change in boundaries was made in Tennessee: the 186th District would include that part of the state east of the western boundaries of the counties of Sullivan and Greene. The counties of Hancock and Hawkins were transferred to the 678th District. Dickerson was followed in governorship by Curtis V. Bishop of Danville; Clem D. Johnston of Roanoke, now in Washington; Devereux D. Rice* of Johnson City. Devereux died in office and his term filled out by Raymond C. Campbell; Rev. W. R. "Shorty" Smith of Chatham, now of Winston-Salem; George W. Leavell* of Bristol; Felix E. Edmunds of Waynesboro; Rev. Ronald S. Wilson of Winchester, now of Miami; Asa W. Reese of Radford. Lynn Dickerson was first president of the Radford club. Reese was followed by Garland K. "Link" Linkous* of Danville; M. Lester Carper of Martinsville; Percy H. Warren of Harrisonburg; Daniel E. "Dan" Leatherman of Winchester, Member, Rotary Foundation Development Committee of R. I.; Louis A. Pardue, Blacksburg; Joel L. Borden of Bedford; Emmett A. Stover of Martinsville and Norman V. "Gus" Geyer of Kingsport. In 1949 our district became the 275th. The boundaries of the district were designated as: TENNESSEE, that portion east of the western boundaries of the counties of Sullivan and Greene; VIRGINIA, that portion west of the eastern boundaries of the counties of Clarke, Warren, Page, Rockingham, Augusta, Nelson, Amherst, Campbell and Pittsylvania. There were no further changes when the district became 757 on July 1, 1957.

It may not be generally understood by the average Rotarian that the United States is distributed into five zones primarily for the nomination of five directors of Rotary International. The boundaries are changed occasionally, such as before the 1943 convention and again in May, 1946. Zone 1 comprises the Pacific and west central states in general, Alaska and Hawaii; Zone 2, the states near the Great Lakes, including North Dakota. Zone 3 is the south central section. Zone 5, New England and most of the north Atlantic states, including eastern Pennsylvania. Our Zone 4 includes all of Maryland, except the west corner, Virginia, West Virginia, the southern half of Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, and Alabama. Twenty-four districts are components of the 4th Zone. Besides District 757, we are grouped with 667, 669, 671, 674, 676, 678, 686, 688, 690, 692, 694, 696, 699, 753, 755, 760, 762, 767, 769, 771, 773, 775, 777. Our nearest neighbor in West Virginia is District 755; the eastern half of Virginia is 760 and in western North Carolina bordering us on the south are districts 767 and 769; across our boundary in Kentucky is District 674. Directors from the various zones mentioned alternate in serving two years. All directors serve two years. The U. S. A. supplies five of the ten directors of Rotary International, an eleventh being the president-elect. These eleven are in addition to the president, three vice-presidents, general secretary and treasurer.

International Officers

This part of our history fills us with particular pride.

In addition to the district governors mentioned previously, the territory of the 757th District as it now stands has produced three directors of Rotary International, namely: Ed. R. Johnson* of Roanoke, 1936-37; E. W. Palmer* of Kingsport, 1939-40, and Irvin Cubine of Martinsville, 1945-46. Ed. R. Johnson was international vice president and director in 1933-34, and international president in 1935-36. When the district was known as No. 4, W. E. Morton of Richmond was director in 1914-15, and when numbered 37, M. Eugene Newsom, of Durham, was director both in 1926-27 and in 1930-31, at the time of which latter date the district was known as 56. "Gene" Newsom was international president in 1929-30.

In Memoriam

We pause to recognize the passing of Ed. R. Johnson of Roanoke, at his winter home in Florida on April 12, 1960. He brought honor to our district as president of Rotary International, in 1935-36, friend and advisor of all Rotarians who were privileged to know him and partake of his hospitality.

One Time Governors

The following Rotarians served as governors from the 52d District at a time when that district included some of the territory now in the 757th District. Robert Yost of Bristol, was governor in 1928-29; E. W. Palmer, 1930-31, and Clarence P. Daniel* of Bristol, 1936-37. Clarence resigned in January, 1937, and his term was filled out by E. W. Palmer, so Colonel Palmer was governor twice under different circumstances.

Conferences

Previous to the formation of districts a conference of what was formerly known as the Southern Division had been scheduled to be held at New Orleans, La., in 1916. Because of this general conference, none was held in the 4th District that year. In 1917, the first conference of the 4th District was held at Charlotte, April 25; in 1918 Asheville was the host on March 8-9; in 1919 Greensboro, N. C., May 20-21; 1920 Greenville, S. C.,

March 15-16; 1921 Norfolk, April 12-13-14; 1922 Winston-Salem, N. C., March 21-22; 1923 Petersburg, March 6-7; 1924 Raleigh, N. C., April 3-4; 1925 Richmond, March 26-27; 1926 Durham, April 13-14; 1927 Roanoke, April 26-27; 1928 Norfolk May 8-9; 1929 Lynchburg, May 2-3; 1930 Richmond, May 8-9; 1931 Norfolk, May 6-7-8; 1932 Danville, May 4-5-6; 1933 Newport News, May 11-12; 1934 Roanoke, May 16-17-18; 1935 Richmond, May 9-10; 1936 Lynchburg, May 21-22; 1937 Newport News, May 5-6-7; 1938 Staunton, May 5-6; 1939 Roanoke, May 4-5—this meeting was a joint conference with the 187th District; 1940 Bristol, April 25-26; 1941 Winchester, April 21-22; 1942 Danville, April 19-20-21; 1943 Roanoke, April 11-12; 1944 Roanoke, April 24-25; in 1945 no conference was held due to government wartime restrictions, voting being accomplished by mail; 1946 Johnson City, April 14-16; 1947 Roanoke, April 18-19; 1948 Bristol, April 9-10; 1949 Roanoke, April 21-23; 1950 Kingsport, April 20-21-22; 1951 Roanoke, May 3-4-5; 1952 Staunton, April 24-25-26; 1953 Johnson City, February 26-27-28; 1954 Hot Springs, March 11-12-13; 1955 Hot Springs, March 10-11-12.

Conferences have continued at the Homestead in Hot Springs each year since 1954. In 1956 March 8-9-10; in 1957 March 7-8-9; in 1958 March 20-21-22; in 1959 March 5-6-7; in 1959 March 5-6-7; in 1960 March 24-25-26; in 1961 March 23-24-25.
